

6 Critical Practices

for Leading a Team®

Practices That Set Exceptional Managers Apart

Challenges & solutions

Today, most organizations expect leaders to deliver better results, faster, with teams that are already overloaded and often disengaged. Two key statistics show how increasingly urgent these challenges have become:

- Managers account for up to 70% of the variance in team engagement. (Gallup)
- Only 27% of employees say they clearly understand their role at work. (FranklinCovey)

The answer is not to add more to leaders' workloads or increase headcount. It lies in how leaders lead their teams more effectively - strengthening engagement and retaining talent to enable faster, more consistent execution and achieve higher, more sustainable results.

Drawing on global research into effective leadership behaviors, FranklinCovey developed The 6 Critical Practices for Leading a Team to help leaders manage people consistently and systematically in the flow of everyday work. The program enables them to translate strategy into sustainable results through the contribution and engagement of their teams.

Comprehensive leadership mindsets that enhance leadership effectiveness and improve the quality of decision-making.

Powerful execution tools that optimize operations and drive consistent results.

Critical leadership practices that improve team performance and sustain results over time.

Who Should Attend

“The 6 Critical Practices for Leading a Team” is a globally standardized leadership development framework designed for:

- Managers and leaders at all levels who want a structured, globally proven approach to leading teams with greater effectiveness and long-term impact.
- Managers and leaders transitioning from high-performing individual contributors or task-focused managers into influential leaders who empower others and build stronger teams.
- Organizations seeking to develop a consistent leadership standard and strengthen execution capabilities across their management and leadership teams.

Program Overview

6 Critical Practices for Leading a Team® is a practical operating system that builds daily and weekly habits to balance high expectations with genuine care.

It equips every leader with the core people skills to shape trust, engagement, and performance - turning strategy into outcomes and enabling organizations to achieve consistently great results through people, not at their expense.

The Shift This Course Creates

From	→	To
Uneven execution across teams		Predictable execution with clear goals, role clarity, and high-value 1-on-1s that keep priorities moving
Capacity bottlenecks as the same few “go-to” people absorb most of the work		Expandable capacity by distributing ownership and matching support to skill and will
Turnover and burnout, even among top talent		Sustained engagement by pairing high expectations with genuine care and purpose that motivates best effort
Every manager leads differently, creating pockets of excellence and high risk		Consistent leadership through six repeatable practices that create shared standards for sustained superior results

Common Challenges

- Missed deadlines and slow results
- Default to telling instead of coaching
- Avoiding or delaying useful feedback
- Uneven performance across managers
- Losing good people to weak leadership

Benefits
